

Request for Submissions

Manhattan Literary Review would like to see your stories, artwork, poetry, essays, or anything else you'd care to bring to our attention. We don't know what we like until we see it. While we try to be open-minded, there's no getting around the editors' personal tastes and biases.

Our reading period is announced on our website. Keep in mind that our space is limited. Please use standard submission format and courtesies when presenting your work, send a disposable copy of your manuscript, and enclose a No. 10 SASE. We will do our best to respond in timely fashion. Send your submission to:
